

In letters to Exxon Mobil and Shell Oil, Chairman Waxman asks the companies to voluntarily provide witnesses for a Domestic Policy Subcommittee hearing on temperature-based expansion and contraction of gasoline and the resulting effect on gas prices. Neither company provided a witness for the subcommittee's first hearing on the issue, and Chairman Waxman writes that he would "like to avoid the necessity to issue a subpoena." Documents and Links

- Letter to Shell Oil Company
- Letter to ExxonMobil Corporation